
St. Lucy's to Start Construction Of New $170,000 Church Building

Men of St. Lucy's Catholic Church will meet tomorrow at 8 p.m. at St. Lucy's School when plans for the building and financing of the new $170,000 church building will be outlined by Father Denis Kennelly, pastor. Bids were opened Wednesday in San Francisco for the combined church and parish hall. The new church will face Winchester Road just south of Kennedy Ave. on property recently acquired by the parish.

The church will be 136-feet in depth and will be 49-feet in width. Adjoining the church on the north side will be the 60-feet by 37-feet parish hall. Sound proof rolling doors will partition the hall from the church. When the doors are opened into the church the combined seating will total 1000 with 600 in the church and 400 in the hall.

The construction of the church and hall marks the second major building program undertaken by the parish during recent years. In 1953 St. Lucy's School was built. In February four acres known as "the Barber Place" adjacent to the school were purchased by the parish. It is on this property that the new edifice will arise.

The purchase of the property last February also included the two-story Barber residence which is now undergoing major repairs and will be used as a rectory for the present. Thus the entire plant of the parish will be in one location.

The church on Rincon Ave., completed in 1929, and the present rectory at 177 Rincon Ave., will be disposed of at a later date, Father Kennelly reported. It has long been known that the parish had outgrown its present facilities.

Father Kennelly said that some consideration had been given to the enlarging of the church on Rincon Ave. and remodeling the rectory but such a move was abandoned as impractical and economically unsound as it would only afford temporary relief.

"The community was growing too fast," the pastor said, "and St. Lucy's had to keep pace."

Construction is expected to get underway within the next five or six weeks when ground will be broken. It is anticipated that it will be completed by next March. When the project is completed the area will embrace the new church, rectory, present school and recreational grounds, a multi-purpose hall, and ample parking area. Eventually a convent on the property will be added.

The new church and hall building will follow contemporary Californian in architectural style. All the building units will harmonize in design with emphasis on functional use as well as beauty,then will be completely and modernly equipped.

Pardini Gets Job

Contract for the construction of St. Lucy's new church and hall to be located on Winchester Road just south of Kennedy Ave. was awarded Wednesday of this week to Elmo W. Pardini, general contractors of 1741 Hamilton Ave., San Jose. Pardini was the contractor also for St. Lucy's School four years ago.

Architects for the project are Ryan, Lee and Glass with offices in Santa Clara and San Francisco. Approval for the construction has also been granted by the building committee of the Archdiocese of San Francisco, according to Father Denis Kennelly, St. Lucy's pastor.

Campbell Grows – So Does Parish

With the awarding of the contract this week for the construction of the $170,000 church and parish hall for St. Lucy's Catholic Church in Campbell, another milestone in the growth of the community was registered.

The church on Rincon Ave., which the parish has outgrown, was completed in 1929. Prior to that time Mass was celebrated here in rented buildings. The first 1912 in an old hall on Campbell Father John McNally, February 2, 1912 in an old hall in Campbell Ave. Campbell at that time was part of the Burbank parish.

By 1925 the rented quarters had become too small. Under the guidance of Father John J. McGarr the building of the present church was started. In 1936 Father McGarr was succeeded by Father Jeremiah Ryan as pastor in Burbank.

St. Lucy's was a mission, however, until 1947 when it became a fullfledged parish and Father Denis Kennelly was appointed its first pastor.

The church and hall mark the second major building project for the parish undertaken since Father Kennelly has been pastor. In 1953 St. Lucy's School was completed.

The growth of the community and the parish is also reflected in the fact that since 1949 an assistant pastor has been assigned here. The present assistant, Father Thomas Ahern came to the parish in 1954

Planners May Delay Adoption Of Plan Line for Winchester

City Planners at their meeting tonight in the Country Woman's Club auditorium may adopt the official plan line for Campbell Ave. but they may delay the more controversial Winchester Road proposal until a later meeting.

Cause of the delay for Winchester Road deal, according to Nestor Barrett, planning consultant, is of a two-fold nature. (1) The consultant has not yet completed his study of how the Roosevelt Redwood will or will not enter the future picture of the city and (2) the Planners must decide what effect the opinion of City Attorney Joseph Bonacina will have on the setback problem that will arise when the extra land needed for widening of the street is taken from the property owners.

Bonacina has submitted his opinion on the subject to the Planning Commission. When the official plans were first presented by the city engineer's office a number of residents on the street revealed that when the land was taken from them, their houses in many instances would be less than the 25-feet from the street that is required by city ordinance. They wanted to know just what the City was going to do about it. The Planners referred the question to Bonacina for an answer.

Roosevelt Redwood

Barrett will also make another report on the controversial Roosevelt Redwood situation. He plans to display a diagram that will show members of the Commission just what is in store as far as the future of the tree is concerned. He feels, however, that adoption of the Campbell Ave. plan line will not affect the status of the tree in any way.

It is expected that a number of interested residents on Winchester Road will be present at the meeting, which is actually a continued hearing on the adoption of the plan lines. Tied in with the setback question as far as they are concerned is whether the extra land will be taken off the east or west side of the street. The engineers have recommended that it be taken off both sides equally. But this has not so far met with the approval of residents of either side.

Adoption of the plan lines will merely "freeze" the areas so that no structures can be built inside the lines. When the streets themselves will be widened is still a matter of future concern.

Zone Violation Report

The Planners will also hear a report from W. L. (Bud) Morser, building inspector, on the question of a possible zoning violation for the G and P Equipment Rental Co at 437 N. San Jose-Los Gatos Road. Morser's report stems from the protest made by A. C. Goulding, 451 San Jose-Los Gatos Road, that the firm was creating excessive dust and noise at the location.

At the present time the area is

Did It Die?

Did the Roosevelt Redwood die? And is the tree over which the present controversy is raging as to its future status one that was replanted in its stead?

Despite the statement of Mrs. Alice Joy Keith, who was present when the tree was planted in 1903, and who claims that it is the original and has watched its growth throughout the years, the rumor persists that the tree known as the Roosevelt Redwood is a fake.

Mrs. Lucia Whitney, 175 E. Campbell, who was also present at the tree-planting and is the daughter of the late Major Horace Foote (Foote St. was named after him) and the widow of George Whitney, who built many of the Campbell buildings, claims that the original tree died and the trustees replanted it.

An anonymous letter to The Press this week adds that too much fuss was being made over the tree

JUST A FEW (19) REASONS WHY SCHOOLS ARE NEEDED . . . In one block in the Westchester Park area of Campbell between Rincon and Ricky Court there is a lot of hustling and bustling as school opening nears. Some of the reasons for the activity are pictured above. The Press cameraman (somewhat prejudiced because he lives on the street) claims that this one block rates pretty high in any per-block ratio that may be devised as to school population in the district. The cameraman "shot" 16 kids of school age and then ran in three extras as "going-ons". But he did not include some of the young, young fry who also live on the street. Pictured in the group on the left are three in the just pre-school age bracket, from left, Christine McGovern, 273 Christopher; Randy Locke, 300 Christopher, and Butch Van Laarhoven, 285 Christopher. San Jose State Marks Centennial As Term Begins

San Jose State College will begin its Centennial Year during the week of September 17 with orientation of new students and new faculty members and with registration for the fall semester on September 20 and 21. Enrollment in California's oldest public institution for higher education is expected to reach 10,500.

While the principal celebration of the 100th anniversary of the college is scheduled for next May, the centennial theme will be carried out in all of the events of the academic year. Special program, such as symposia on educational and current subjects, are planned throughout the year by the college departments.

On September 24, the first day of classes, the opening convocation will be marked with the official presentation of a Centennial flag, which will be displayed throughout the year and which will bear the special Centennial emblem.

Students and faculty returning to the campus after the summer vacation will find several major building projects in progress. A new three-story classroom building and a new administration building are in the early stages of construction. An addition to the Library is nearing completion but an addition to the Natural Science Building will not be finished until mid-year. The Men's Gymnasium addition was occupied early in the summer.

President John T. Wahlquist announces that the faculty will number about 600 as the college begins its hundredth year. When the school started in San Francisco in 1857 there were four on the teaching staff.

ST LUCY'S SCHOOL TO START TUESDAY

St. Lucy's School will open next Tuesday, September 11, to begin their fourth year in Campbell. When the school opened four years ago, 150 pupils were enrolled in the first three grades.

With an expected enrollment of 300 this year, the seventh grade has been added and an additional teacher, for a total of six teachers.

Sister Mary Florence will again take up her duties as principal this year and will teach the fifth grade. Sister Marie Josepha will teach the second grade this year, and Mrs. Johnson will return to teach the third grade.

Three new teachers, Sister Augustine, Sister Marie Julitta and Miss Wilson, will teach the remaining grades, including a combined sixth and seventh grades.

Registration will be held at the school tomorrow and Saturday, September 7 and 8, from 9 a.m. to 12 noon. Both parents are requested to attend for two interviews, one with the pastor and the other with Sister Mary Florence. All last names beginning with the letters "A" through "M" will be interviewed on Friday, and "N" through "Z" on Saturday.

SDA School on Double Sessions

When Seventh-Day Adventist School in Campbell started last Tuesday, a total of 61 students enrolled, an increase of ten over last year at this time, with enrollment expected to reach approximately 65 before long, according to Earl McPhee, principal. Grades one through four are on double sessions.

With addition of Miss Margaret Sackett to teach first and second grades, the teaching staff has been increased to a total of three. Mrs. Nellie Ramsey will return to teach third and fourth graders, and Earl McPhee will teach grades five though eight, with assistance from other teachers.

School trustees will submit a request to Campbell's Planning Commission tonight to permit building an additional one-room structure to house first and second grades, to alleviate double sessions.

SUPERVISORS CALL BOND ELECTIONS

Board of Supervisors this week voted to call a $7,115,000 construction bond election November 6. The figures adopted closely followed County Executive Frank H. Thill's recommendation.

The breakdown for the items that will appear on the ballot in November:

Juvenile hall, $1,200,000; administration building, $575,000; central services facilities, $800,000; fiscal building, $800,000; school department quarters, $650,000; hospital nursing unit for women, $450,000; health department wing, $180,000; North County courthouse, $835,000; communications center, $350,000; purchase of land, $1,275,000.

The largest roofless baseball arena in the United States is Seals Stadium in San Francisco.

Moreland School Expects 500 Hike Over Last Year

Mrs. Gussie Baker, Moreland School District superintendent, estimates that an enrollment well in excess of 1400 is expected on opening day, September 17, an increase of 500 over last year at this time.

Students who will attend Strawberry Park School, now under construction with completion date expected to be November 1, will meet at El Quito Park School in the afternoons. When the school is completed, students and faculty will transfer to the new plant. The eleven faculty members, including a principal, will take up their duties on opening date.

Site for the additional school on Campbell Ave. has been acquired, although construction has not yet begun, pending approval of architectural drawings for the new plant. When completed, the new school will relieve crowded conditions at Moreland School.

District Citizens Advisory Committee, headed by Henry P. Nettesheim, engineering professor at the University of Santa Clara, has recommendtd to the board of trustees that a tax increase of 60 cents and apportionment of two million dollars be approved. The 60-cent tax increase, bringing the present school tax rate from $1.50 to $2.10 for each $100 of assessed valuation, is needed to take care of operational and maintenance costs of the district, as well as add needed facilities to the schools, particularly at El Quito Park and Bucknall schools.

The request for two million dollars in state aid, if approved, will be used to acquire sites and construct new school plants to take care of the tremendous expected increase in the district's enrollment.

Voters in the district will go to the polls on October 2 to decide on the tax increase and apportionment.

Voting will be held at Moreland and El Quito Park schools, with polls open from 7 a.m to 7 p.m.

John Bealer and son, Miles, arrived in Campbell last week to visit their many relatives and friends during their five-day stay here. John's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Bealer, live on Quito Road and his brother, Ed, is a local insurance agent. John, who formerly made his home in this area, is a Post Office employee in Amarillo, Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Jones of West Campbell Ave., returned last week from a tree-weeks trip that took them over nearly 4000 miles of scenic driving through the northwest. First stop on the way was Salt Lake City, then on to Yellowstone Park where they spent about three days in the "Jackson Hole" country, near the Grand Tetons. From there, they went on through Montana and on to Washington and the Grand Coulee Dam and then to Vancouver and Victoria, B. C. They reported an interesting one-day excursion on a mail boat up the Rogue River rapids. On their return to Campbell, the Jones came by way of the Redwood Highway.

Labor Day guests at the Jones home were Mrs. Jones' sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ohea of San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. Ethan Lanphear and son George spent a week in northern California recently, camping near the Trinity River.

On the Friday evening after the recent Republican convention, Mr. and Mrs. Crawford W. Shockley drove to San Francisco and dined and spent the evening with Senator and Mrs. John J. Williams of Millsboro, Delaware, and Washington, D. C., former neighbors of the Shockleys. Other friends from Berkeley and Sacramento were also guests of the senator and his wife. The Williams returned to Campbell with the Shockleys and on the following Saturday afternoon were honored guests at a California-style steak barbecue in the Shockley patio. Mr. and Mrs. Dale Peterson and daughter, Lynn Dee, also attended the barbecue. Mrs. Peterson is the former Barbara Shockley.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hoque and children, Paul, Cynthia and Linda returned last week from a two-weeks vacation. They spent the first week taking in the sights at Disneyland. They spent their second week at Lake Tahoe. The Hoques live on East Campbell Ave.

Big name golfers Jim Keller, Dick Taylor, Joe Cogdell and Scotty McBath, of Stanford, have entered the second annual Santa Clara County Fair 36-hole medalist golf tournament to be held September 8 and 9 at the Almaden Country Club in San Jose, according to Cleo Smith, tournament chairman.

Gerald Soto, last year's winner of the tournament, also will be on hand to defend his title. Soto won a set of Hogan irons and a 21-jewel Helrus wristwatch as winner of the 1955 tournament.

An estimated 200 California golfers are expected to enter the 1956 tournament, Smith said. Golfers will play on a par 72 championship course measuring better than 7000 yards.

Goal of $478,966

Directors Approve Record Budget Of Central County Community Chest

The largest Community Chest goal in the history of Central Santa Clara County, $478,966 was approved last week by the board of directors of the Community Welfare Council.

While falling way short of the sum asked by the Red Feather agencies to carry on their increasing work-load for 1957, the goal represents a 12.5 per cent increase over last year's goal of $410,900. The 30 members agencies of the Council had requested a total budget of $562,172.

Bare Minimum

Everett D. Myers, chairman of the budget committee which had spent many long weeks studying agency needs in this area, presented the committee's recommendations for the $478,966 goal representing a bare minimum necessary to continue Red Feather services next year.

George H. Barnett, president of the Community Welfare Council indicated that the research and social planning division of the Council is constantly making studies of agencies and their programs along with changing conditions of our communities in order to determine if programs are meeting the health and welfare needs during this period of change and increased case-load that all the agencies are feeling.

Chairman Appeals

Faced with the burden of raising the $478,966 goal this fall, Edward H. Ryan, campaign chairman declared: "While the goal is a big one, I have every confidence that our goal will be achieved in this campaign, but it is going to take a minimum of 12½ per cent increase on the part of all of our contributors if we are to reach the goal that has been set.

"Our success depends on the wholehearted and generous support of all the people in the entire solicitation area," he said. I hope our volunteer solicitors in this United Red Feather campaign will reach all of the newcomers in our community and give them an opportunity to assume their fair share of this community responsibility."

The fall campaign to be conducted by the Community Welfare Council of Santa Clara County will reach into 30 surrrounding communities. The Los Gatos Welfare Fund and the Milpitas Relief Fund are the two newest agencies to join the Council.

Red Feather Agencies

Other Red Feather agencies serving the people of Central Santa Clara County which will benefit from the fall campaign include: Adult and Child Guidance Clinic, Boy Scouts of America, Camp Fire Girls, Campbell Milk Fund, Campbell Library Fund, Catholic Social Service, Catholic Women's Center, Children's Home Society, Cupertino Welfare Fund, Eastfield, Family Service Association, Girl Scouts, Hope for Retarded Children, Jewish Community Council, P. T. A. San Jose City Milk Fund, PTA Santa Clara County Council Milk Fund, St. Elizabeth's Day Home, The Salvation Army, San Jose Day Nursery, Santa Clara County Youth Center, Stanford Convalescent Home, Student Christian Association, Visiting Nurse Association, Volunteers of America, Brandon Guest House, Volunteer Bureau, Y. Boy Scout troop 70 has collected six tons of paper. When they have 12 tons, the truck will call for the paper and the boys will be paid. In the mean time is there anybody in the area with room to store six tons of newspapers, neatly tied? Those who have papers to donate, either in pa[illegible]eboard cartons, or tied up would likewise be welcome. Telephone Mrs. Doris Cada, AX 6-6304.

SAN TOMAS SUMMARY

Isabelle Pechin
FR 8-8040

There is still water in the San Tomas Creek. Several times earlier in the season the flow was tempoarrily interrupted while the diversionary ditch was repaired. Residents are speculating as to tinue until winter. If the sewage whether or not the flow will consituation on the upper reaches of the creek could be corrected, pleasant recreational vistas open.

The 4H party at Mrs. Dick Slauter's home on Hacienda was a great success. The next meeting will be open for new members.

Getty-Killmer Vows Exchanged At Shelton, Wash.

Miss Audrey Delores Killmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Killmer of Campbell, exchanged wedding vows with Raymond Getty, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Getty at the First Baptist Church of Shelton, Washington on August 17.

For her wedding, the bride was gowned in chantilly lace and misty tulle fashioned with a fitted bodice and long sleeves. The sabrina neckline was trimmed in sequins and seed pearls and the skirt was accented by side and back tiers of lace and tulle, forming a chapel train. Her fingertip veil was attached to a crown of seed pearls.

Mrs. Robert Jennings, sister of the bride was her matron of honor, attired in a lavender silver sheen taffeta gown in the princess style. She wore a headpiece of white daisies. Miss Janet Killmer, another sister of the bride, was her maid of honor. She was attired similarly to the matron of honor.

The Misses Earleen Moore, Evelyn Park and Mrs. Maryann Butler, bridesmaids, wore gowns identical to the matron of honor and maid of honor, in a lighter shade of lavender.

Serving at the reception in the church parlors following the ceremony, were Mrs. Fritz Arno of Seattle, and Mrs. O. M. Steen, aunt of the bride. Marie Arno of Seattle was in charge of the guest book.

The bride graduated from Irene S. Reed high school and attended Seattle Pacific College. Prior to her marriage, she was employed at a bank in Los Gatos.

The groom is also a graduate of Irene S. Reed high school in Shelton, Washington, and is employed by a logging company.

CAMPBELL GIRL CHANGES NAME . . . Justwed Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cardona are now at home in Santa Clara following their wedding trip to northern California. The young couple recited their vows at St. Lucy's Church in Campbell recently.

Cardona-Miranda Vows Exchanged in St. Lucy's Church Here Recently

St. Lucy's Church in Campbell was the nuptial setting on August 18, when Miss Rose Marie Miranda became the bride of Henry Cardona, in a double ring ceremony celebrated by The Rev. Denis Kennelly.

When she went down the aisle on the arm of her brother, Albert Miranda, who gave her in marriage, Miss Clorinda DiLeonardo sang "Ave Maria", "On This Day" and "Panis Angelicus", accompanied at the organ by Miss Marilyn Ott.

For her wedding, the bride was attired in a floor length gown fashioned with a fitted bodice of Chantilly lace over satin, long tapered sleeves and an embroidered V-neckline. Her bouffant skirt of tulle was accented with Chantilly lace medallions, with medallions also accenting the chapel train. Her fingertip veil descended from a small fitted headpiece of Chantilly lace and tulle and she carried a white prayer book with a cascade bouquet of white orchids, Stephanotis and Phalaenopsis.

Mrs. Frank Fries, friend of the bride, was her matron of honor, and another friend, Mrs. Richard Pfeiffer, was brides maid.

Following the ceremony, more than 250 friends and relatives of the couple attended the reception in the San Jose Women's Club when the newlyweds cut their six-tiered wedding cake.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Frank Lucas of Campbell, and the late John Miranda. She attended Notre Dame High School and San Jose State College and has been employed as a secretary in San Jose. She has a sister, Mrs. Merrill Grim, and a brother Albert Miranda.

Henry Cardona is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cardona of San Jose. He graduated from Willow Glen High School and is presently attending San Jose Junior College, majoring in electrical engineering, and employed part-time at IBM in San Jose. He has two brothers, Carl and Joe Cardona.

ONE CITY HOLDS IT UP

If the county-wide sales tax is to go into effect by October 1, the legal machinery must go into operation this month, i.e. the various cities must pass the necessary enabling legislation.

Under the state law, a uniform county sales tax can only go into effect if the county adopts the measure. After months of arguments between the various cities and the county, as to what the county's "take" from the cities should be in a countywide tax, a compromise was worked out where the county's cut would be nine per cent. On that basis the county is ready to adopt the uniform tax.

But there is one joker in the deck which may force the painfully acquired compromise to go up in smoke. It's all or none. Unless every city agrees to the county-city settelment, the whole plan will collapse.

The advantages of a county-wide sales tax over individual city sales taxes are many fold. Obviously it would make for better countywide public relations if the tax would be the same both in the unincorporated areas and the cities. Under the county-wide setup, the collection of the tax would be handled by the state where the machinery is already established, thus making it both more convenient as well as more efficient.

As we write this ,every city in the county except Milpitas has agreed to the proposal, and it does not appear likely that Milpitas intends to go along. Milpitas apparently has gone high-hat. With its $40-million Ford plant as a base, it doesn't want anything to do with such a small item as a penny sales tax. The Ford plant takes care of them fine, thank you. So the good City Fathers of Milpitas don't give a hoot about the rest of the county. They will continue to get along nicely without it.

Without such a treasure chest as the Ford plant available, Campbell and a number of other cities find it necessary to adopt a sales tax, whether countywide or citywide in scope. Campbell will be forced to adopt its own tax this month, if the county-wide deal does not go through, which it won't unless Milpitas foregoes its selfish attitude.

We think it is a dirty shame that one little burg, by such an attitude, can jeopardize the financial security of its sister cities.

WATCH OUT FOR THE KIDS —

"Five million first-grade scholars are filing into the schoolrooms across the nation to begin their education.

"Some will never reach the second grade —

"Many of these five and six-year-olds, on their "own" for the first time, will be killed or injured while flocking through dangerous city traffic or on hazardous country roads." . . .

That is the way the press release from "Institute for Safer Living" of the American Mutual Liability Insurance Company starts out.

Thousands of words will be written cautioning motorists to drive carefully now that school is once more in session. Editors all over the land will take their typewriters in hand and pound out editorials on the subject.

But tragedy will continue to strike and grieving parents in too many instances will give vivid evidence that the many words of caution have proved of no avail.

The Campbell area's tremendous school population growth in recent years has emphasized the importance of careful driving in the community where schools have sprung up where there were only trees before. Where there are schools there are kids. And where there are youngsters, there always lurks the danger of traffic accidents.

Your editor is particularly conscious of the mob scenes that will be so common now that school is about to start. In the block in which we live there are 21 youngsters of school age and a number more who will be in school in another year. This is just one block in this community. When multiplied by the hundreds of similar areas that make up the community, one gains some idea of the importance of driving carefully, not only by the schools, but in the residential sections where the school kids live.

We feel that the parents can materially aid in reducing the traffic accident toll by stressing to their youngsters the danger that is ever-present in the streets. The parents themselves should work out the safest route to school and then see that their youngsters follow it.

They should point out to the smaller children especially the dangers of cars emerging from driveways and impress upon the children the need to obey all traffic officers and school crossing guards.

As the Institute for Safer Living points out, the life parents may save by responsible "safety training" means much more to them than their own.

OUT on the LIMB

George Vierhus

We credit Bob Allen, Campbell police officer, with one of the most outstanding understatements of of the year. One morning not so long ago we found the following note on our desk:

"When screenless windows are left open, there is a great risk of burglary."

The note was signed by Bob who had demonstrated that his statement was no idle chatter by climbing through window in our back shop and proceeding through the plant to the front office. He then let himself out the front door after writing the note and checking that no burglars had preceded him.

Needless to say Bob's message got through to us. Since his unscheduled tour we have taken extra special precautions to check the windows in our joint before we leave at night.

Bob left a fellow-officer on the outside when he made his nocturnal inspection of The Press. It was his first such visit to the back shop and he told us he went through it with a drawn gun after the first couple of steps.

The electric melting pot on our linotype machine is thermostatically controlled and when the temperature drops (night or day) it goes on with quite a clatter.

We scarcely hear it as it goes on and off. But we can imagine what Bob's reaction was when in the stillness and dark of the night he heard that melting pot take off in high gear.

No wonder he drew his gun. We are just darn lucky he didn't shoot that linotype full of holes.

We certainly appreciate the way the local cops patrol the city and business places. We think they are doing an excellent job and we know there are many others who agree with us on that.

Although Bob Locke's men are not "door-know rattlers" in the strict sense of the word (they haven't time to do that), they certainly have cooperated with local merchants and professional men from time to time in that field.

We heard that once, for example, that they found a local doctor's office wide open making an ideal and easy set-up for someone who would have wanted to cart off narcotics and other stuff that docs keep around.

We hope the cops will be around the next time some joker heaves a rock through one of our windows. So far we have had to replace three panes in our building. And we are getting mighty tired of it. The last one to go was some time ago but it was the big front window and we were pretty sore about it.

We have been told, however, that window-breaking has become a habit for some of the irresponsible youngsters in the city. A number of other places in town have been subjected to such a treatment.

As a matter of fact, the police department has a pretty good idea of who has been doing the tossing of rocks and we betcha that should another window go that certain young fry will have to do quite a bit of explaining as to their whereabouts.

The armed forces do a pretty fair job of keeping the papers informed as to the activities of local young men and women in the services.

We get releases regularly from the Army and Navy telling us how people from this general area are faring in the ranks. The releases generally give the name and address of the parents and where the person in the service went to school. We are pleased to publish them.

Recently we received a release that had us perplexed as to why we were on the receiving end. We searched and searched but just couldn't find a local angle to save our soul.

It told about an Army captain who recently received a certificate of achievement. The address given, however, was Sarasota, Fla. Even with our tremendous growth we felt that we would be stretching just a bit to try to dream up any "local angle" on that.

We sorta think the Army publicity boys got mixed up and thought perhaps that Saratoga, Calif. was meant which is quite close to our sphere of influence.

The Campbell-Cambrian Little League enjoyed a very successful season this summer. We were pleased that we were able to give complete coverage to the games that were played.

We are indebted for our coverage to high-caliber correspondents, one from each league. Steve Dunn, who enters Stanford this Fall, did the job for us on the Campbell league while Al Vatuone, newly appointed principal of the Farnham school in the Cambrian district, handled the Cambrian assignment.

In case you don't know it, it is quite a chore to get the dope together of the week's play but both guys did a top-notch job for us. Incidentally, both of them had some experience in sports writing previously.

Al, every once in a while, would coin a nickname for either a player or a manager. This is an old sportswriter's prerogative and we generally followed Al's copy in this respect.

For example he tabbed Don Witzel, manager of the Robins team, "Roundo". We still don't know why but that's the way we ran it.

Fortunately Don knew that Al had coined it so we didn't have to do any explaining.

Anyway we certainly were fortunate to have two experts do a big job for us. We hope they will be back next year. Otherwise we have a couple of big shoes to fill.

Thanks, Steve and Al.

We'll be seeing you. We hope.

FLASH: One Plank the Same

Democrats and Republicans Agree on Clean Roadsides, Recreation Areas

Both Democrats and Republicans have agreed upon at least one plank in both platforms—that of clean roadsides, city streets and recreational areas, according to the California State Chamber of Commerce.

The national recognition of this serious problem and appreciation of the work being carried on by thousands of civic-minded men and women in California and throughout the nation highlighted the meeting of the Statewide Cleanup Committee, which met in San Francisco on August 27.

The REPUBLICAN PARTY PLATFORM says:

"We subscribe to the general objectives of groups seeking to guard the beauty of our land to promote clean attractive srroundings throughout America."

The DEMOCRATIC PARTY PLATFORM says:

"To the end that the scenic beauty of our land may be preserved and maintained for this and future generations to enjoy, we pledge accelerated support of educational programs to stimulate individual responsibility and pride in clean, attractive surroundings—from big cities to rural areas."

Roadside Rests will start appearing along California's State highways before the end of the year. This was the assurance given by the Division of Beaches and Parks. Six or more of these rests will be established before the end of the calendar year, and a total of 175 is the goal by the end of June 1957 . The sum of $450,000 was appropriated by the recent session of the legislature for their establishment.

Also reported to the Cleanup Committee was stepped up activities on the Five Year Program of acquisition and development to enlarge the State Park System. Some 127 projects are included in the plan for which some $30 million is available from the accumulated oil royalties. These projects consist of new acquisition and additions to existing parks, beaches and other properties now in the system.

To determine the effectiveness of the clean roadsides campaign, which has now been under way for more than three years, reports from the Division of Highways showed that in the communities where organized groups were actively at work, and the cooperation of the county supervisors had been secured, the results were extremely satisfactory.

Singled out for special commendation were U. S. 101 through Monterey, San Luis Obispo and Santa Barbara counties; Highway 99 through Kern, Tulare, Fesno and Madera counties; Shasta and bordering counties in the north. Trash blown from uncovered trucks still is the biggest contributing factor to litter around the metropolitan areas.

The Thompson seedless grape was introduced into California in 1872.

More than one third of a millon Americans traveled abroad on American passports during the first six months of 1956, the Passport Office of the State Department announced. This number, 352,745 to be exact, represents an increase of 5.5 per cent over the same period last year. As usual, California contributed more than 12 per cent of these travelers.

Where did they all go? Well, more than 40 per cent took a tour of Western Europe, a little over 11 per cent went to the British Isles, and almost 10 per cent headed for Germany. But since the Iron Curtain was cranked up a few notches, almost 400 Americans went to Czechoslovakia, 68 to Romania, 264 to Soviet Russia, and almost 8000 to other East European countires, the Passport Office says.

How did they travel? About 155,000 went by airplane, and 162,000 chose ships, while 35,000 used "other means" or did not state their mode of transportation.

Young and elderly travelers outnumbered the middle age groups among passport holders, according to the Passport Office. The largest single group, that between 60 and 76, numbered more than 71,000, while young people between 20 and 29 contributed almost 70,000. The next largest group was made up by people in their fifties, followed by those in their thirties. Undaunted by age, almost 4000 Americans over 76 years of age took out passports and went to see the world.

What kind of people were these travelers? Well, 94,170 housewives led the occupational list, accounting for 26.7 per cent of the total. Almost 36,000 students came next, and clerks and secretaries just outnumbered teachers and retired persons. Next came engineers and executives, doctors and dentists, salesmen, and merchants. There were 4326 skilled laborers among the travelers, but only 4253 bankers and stockholders.

Finally, why did all these people travel? A whooping 72.1 per cent went for sheer pleasure. Military dependents accounted for 7.5 per cent, while a little over five per cent each went on commercial business of for education.

"How old am I?"
—asks Mrs. Edmund Dominguez
197 Millar Avenue, San Jose, California

She's mother of five fine boys yet she looks young enough to be their sister. And (lucky boys) she feels young enough to be their sister!

Why do so many mothers look and feel so much younger these days? One big reason is modern household appliances—they free women from chores that used to rob them of their youth and beauty.

Mrs. Dominguez, who's 33 years old, leaves much of her hard work to labor-saving appliances. How about you?

Here's the beauty of it: With gas and electricity so cheap in California, you can run a houseful of appliances all day for about half the cost of a bottle of liquid makeup.

LOOK UP!

POWER LINES ARE OVERHEAD

TV ANTENNAS . . . plus carelessness around power lines . . . cause fatalities in California every year. A home owner decides to put up his own antenna, a fine tall one for good reception. He fails to LOOK UP! The top-heavy antenna swings and touches an overhead electric line. Injury and sometimes death...to himself and anyone assisting him in the installation . . . can result. And remember, a TV antenna that falls into a power line during a storm can cause a whole house to burn. Always look up when working with TV antennas. Always take care with irrigation pipe, well-drilling rigs, hay derricks, cranes and nut poles.

Boy Scouts to Conduct Nationwide Campaign to Get Voters Registered

A major activity of the Boy Scouts of America's Four-Year Program, "Onward for God and My Country," will be a nationwide campaign to urge citizens to register and vote in the elections this Fall.

Dr. Arthur A. Schuck, Chief Scout Executive, said that a record membership of over 4,175,000 Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts, Explorers, and adult leaders will take part in the 1956 Get-Out-the-Vote campaign, jointly sponsored by the Boy Scouts of America and the Freedoms Foundation, Inc., of Valley Forge.

The campaign will be strictly nonpartisan in its concept and execution, the Chief Scout Executive said.

In 1952 Scouts distributed more han one million posters and thirty than one million posters and thirty hangers to the homes of America, which helped to bring a record turnout of 61,500,000 voters.

Calling the campaign an opportunity to serve the nation, Dr. Schuck said it will have two major outcomes.

Every Scout taking part, he said, will better understand his responsibility as a citizen.

The success of the campaign, he said, cannot be measured alone by the numbers of posters and doorknob hangers distributed, but by a larger number of voters than ever before "having a better understanding and appreciation of their American heritage," and by the number of "individual Scouts who through their participation shall have a larger concept of citizenship."

Since a principal reason for not voting is failure to register, the Boy Scouts' first activity will be to get potential voters to register.

Attractive four-color posters—one and a quarter million of them—will encourage citizens to register and to vote. These posters bear the slogan, "Vote as you think, but vote November 6." Before registration dates these posters will be placed where they will be seen by many people in stores, hotels, transportation terminals, soda fountains, doctors' offices, factories, newsstands, social clubs, utility offices, and other heavy traffic centers.

Then, just before November 6, the Scouts and leaders will begin the largest distribution job in America, except for the delivery of income tax blanks. They will call at 35,000,000 homes across America and place on doorknobs a hanger shaped like the Liberty Bell. These hangers bear the message, "Heed youth's call. Vote as you think, but vote November 6, 1956. Use your freedom to vote." Householders will be asked to display these hangers in their windows indicating their intention to vote.

Hit Play Returns To San Francisco

Great news for the thousands of patrons of the theatre who missed that record-breaking history-making theatrical hit "Anniversary Waltz" which ran for 38 consecutive weeks at the Alcazar Theatre in San Francisco. "Anniversary Waltz" is coming back for a very short engagement of three weeks, only, beginning Monday night, September 17. There will be performances each night with the exception of Sunday, and matinees on Wednesday and Saturday.

The return of this great hit is the result of many letters and telephone calls from patrons who were not able to see it while it was here even though it had such a long and successful stay at the Alcazar.

Richard Eastham will again be seen as Bud Walters, husband and father, and Marjorie Lord as Alice Walters, wife and mother, who are celebrating their fifteenth wedding anniversary much to the delight and edification of the audiences. Richard Eastham and Marjorie Lord are aided by the same capable cast of players, including Herbert Heyes, Ruth Perrott, Kenneth Patterson, Sandra Stone and the others who endeared themselves to the theatregoers of this vicinity during their long stay in San Francisco.

Mail order are now being accepted for this brief stay of "Anniversary Waltz" and the regular box office sale of tickets will start on Monday, September 10.

One of America's first successful seaplanes, a wood and fabric biplane that would fly at 50 miles an hour, was built in 1912 by Allen and Malcolm Lockheed.

To Dedicate Bronze Plaque

Ceremonies on Admission Day Will Mark Site of State's First Paper

A bronze plaque marking the site of the State's first newspaper, The Californian, will be dedicated in Monterey on Admission Day, September 9.

The Northern Californio Professional Chapter, Sigma Delta Chi, is sponsoring the event as the first of a series of "historic sites in journalism" markers in California.

Heading the list of distinguished speakers will be Hon. Joseph R. Knowland, publisher of the Oakland Tribune and president of the California Historical Society.

The Californian was first published August 15, 1846, by Walter Colton and Dr. Robert Baylor Semple. About a year later the paper was moved to San Francisco where it became the city's second newspaper.

The original site of the newspaper's office in Monterey was located after considerable research by Col. Allen Griffin, publisher of the Monterey Peninsula Herald and Philip J. Sinott, chairman of the Chapter's historic sites committee.

The plaque will be installed on a wall between Jacobson Park and the Robert Louis Stevenson House on Munra Avenue near Webster Street, the spot once occupied by the Cuartel Building.

It was with considerable difficulty that Colton and Semple managed to produce their noteworthy newspaper, the first published in the United States west of the Rocky Mountains.

Using a press described then as "old enough to be preserved as a curiosity," the publishers unscrambled and cleaned rusty type, with a jack knife cut leads and rules from a sheet of tin. For a time lack of paper threatened the existence of the newspaper, until a supply was found that was used to envelope the tobacco of the cigars smoked by natives of Monterey.

Though small in size, the first number, according to Colton, "was as full of news as a black walnut is of meat," and a crowd was waiting when the first sheet was thrown from the press.

The newspaper was impartially devoted to American and Spanish readers, half being printed in each language.

Among fraternity members who will participate in the dedication Sunday are Gray Creveling, San Francisco Examiner promotion manager, who was Chapter president when the historic sites project was initiated and A. E. Gilbert, San Francisco California Newspaper Publishers Association manager, who is 1956 president of the Chapter.

LANDSCAPING

Landscaping possibilities offered by the Sasanqa Camellia are many. Its growth habits varies from upright, weeping, to arching branches, and it is pliable enough to be grown as a vine, espalier subject or ground cover. There are varieties in single, semi-double or double forms in many color variations. Next time you're at the nursery introduce yourself to this handsome member of the Camellia family.

Annual Campaign

Automobile Club Urges Motorists To Drive Carefully Near Schools

It's school-opening time and thousands of youngsters are heading back to classes. The California State Automobile Association, in its annual campaign, urges motorists to drive carefully near schools and remember the three R's of driving—Readiness, Restraint and Regard.

Many boys and girls will be making the journey from home to school for the first time and they need every protection the motorist can give them, the CSAA said.

Theme Announced

The theme of the motor club's campaign will again be "School's Open—Drive Carefully". Colorful posters will be placed in conspicuous spots near schools, and bumper strips bearing the message are being distributed to local car owners.

The poster design was adapted from a prize-winning poster in the National Traffic Safety Poster Contest sponsored by the CSAA and the American Automobile Association. The original was drawn by Janice Buckmaster, a 17-year old high school student in San Jose, California.

It is especially important that drivers who have no children of their own be warned as they are the ones who may forget that special speed zones and school crossings must be again observed, said the motorists' organization.

Specific Points

Specifically motorists are urged to:

1. Scrupulously obey speed limits near schools.

2. Be extra alert for children crossiing streets at unexpected places such as from between parked cars or in mid-block.

3. Learn to recognize and cooperate with School Safety Patrol boys and girls.

4. Be especially careful when operating a car near a school bus. When the red signal lights of a school bus are flashing, it is against the law to pass the bus.

PLANNING ON PLANTING?

GARDENER'S CHECK LIST

By The California Association of Nurserymen

Reminders

1. Aluminum or iron sulphate will cause most pink Hydrangeas to change to blue. Your nurseryman wil ladvise you on the frequency of applications.
2. Rhododendrons, Gardenias and Azaleas sometime persist in having yellow sickly leaves even after fertilization. This Condition can frequently be corrected with the application of iron sulphate, or the new corrective, iron chelales.
3. It's time to plant container grown chrysanthemums.
4. Transplant or plant new bearded iris now.
5. Make "hard to work" soils workable by the addition of chemical soil conditioners and humus.

Plant Now For Spring Color

Planning ahead is difficult. If you let your fall planting go you won't enjoy spring flowers next year!

It's a little difficult to think now about the flowers you'd like to have in your spring garden, but the California Association of Nurserymen has several recommendations to help in your selection.

A profuse and sweet-smelling bloom, the Sweet Pea (Lathyrus odoratus) can be set in now. Cuthbertson Sweet Peas are the type nurserymen will have available. These give vigorous growth (even in hot weather), extra long stems and heavy flowering during a long blooming season.

Snapdragons (Antirrhinum majus) are correctly classified as perennials but are usually treated as a spring-blooming annual. These are availabe in soft to deep shades of pink, salmon, yellow, copper and crimson in short, medium and tall heights.

An invaluable edging and filler plant for a spring garden, the Viola and the Pansy, members of the same genus, should be planted now in full sun. The planting soil should be deeply enriched and regular feedings given throughout the growing season. The Pansy and Viola bloom in light lavender-blue, deep violet, apricot, ruby, mahogany-red and purple as well as in many more beautiful hues.

Among perennials, the Poppy (Papaver) is a brilliant member, particularly the Papaver orientale or Oriental Poppy with its orange-scarlet to salmon-pink blooms. A daintier relative of the Oriental Poppy is the Iceland Poppy (P. nudicaule) for its plant is slender and the blossoms shallow-cupped in shades of yellow, white, orange and often a warm orange, apricot or salmon. The Poppy will do well in all zones. In cold winter locales, plant in spring but in mild areas set them in now.

Cape Bulbs

The Freesia, Ixia and Sparaxis, known as Cape bulbs, are probably three of the most riotously colored flowers that ever graced a spring garden. As border subjects or in cut bouquets, their blossoms offer solid colors of lavender, mauve, orange or combinations of orange and amber with a brown center, or orange with black and gold markings.

Because this threesome has somewhat tender flowers, they should be planted in early fall to provide a good growth before cold weather sets in, the California Association of Nurserymen recommends. The Freesia should not be planted outdoors in areas of the state where the ground freezes. In such areas, it should be container-grown. Freesias appreciate sun and a light, well-drained soil. Set the bulbs two inches deep with points up and divide when the clumps become crowded. Since they're rather untidy plants, following spring blooming, plant them where the post-blooming period won't be too noticeable.

Two common Freesia species are the hybrids; a horticultural group with many variants and hybrids in pastel and warm colors and the refracta alba; the familiar white and very fragrant Freesia.

The African Corn Lily, which is known botanically as the Ixia, bears gorgeous cup-shaped blooms in late April and through early June. It flowers in unusual combinations such as the orange and amber with brown center mentioned above; white with a carmine blotch; brilliant crimson with maroon marks or a mixed strain with colors from white to deep pink. Set the African Corn Lily in full sun and light in well-drained soil two inches into the ground.

Like miniature Gladiolus, the funnel-shaped flowers of the Sparaxis Tricolor or Wand Flower are carried in spikes. Colors include red with a dark center, pure yellow, mixtures of purple and yellow. Strains have been developed which offer larger flowers in bright orange, yellow or red marked with black and gold. The Wand Flower requires full sun but it will grow in poor soil with little water. The bulbs should bo two inches into the ground. They will multiply rapidly.

In addition to these brilliant spring bulbs there are several others that will usher in the spring with beauty and fragrance. Glory-of-the-Snow (Chionodoxa), the Crocus, the Hyacinth (Hyacinthus orientalis), and the Grape Hyacinth (Muscari) also belong to the early spring flower group and can be grown in most areas of the state with minimum care. Your local nurseryman will have bulbs of all these spring flowers for you to set out now. Get some and plant them soon.

Indoor-Outdoor Philodendron

There's a place in every California gardener's home or garden for the Philodendron for this vine grows very well in most houses and in certain outdoor situations.

There are a great many Philodendron types and with few exceptions, all grow in a trailing or climbing manner. The leaves of the Philodendron are leathery and lobed in many shades of green (sometimes mottled or variegated in various shapes.) Flowers appear only on mature plants; they resemble Callas and are usually in inconspicuous greenish white.

Leaf and stalk size on an indoor plant will be directly influenced by the size of the container you use. The more root space the plant has, the larger the leaves and stalks. Philodendrons thrive in even temperatures. Full northern light or indirect sunlight is all the light this plant needs. Variegated types require more light than plain ones. Provide a well-drained soil and keep moist, watering only when the surface is dry. After your plant is established, feed it every four weeks with a liquid or instantly soluble fertilizer recommended for house plants.

These cultural instructions apply also if you plant your Philodendrons outdoors. However, your greatest concern in outdoor culture wil lie in maintaining an even temperature. This can be more easily accomplished if you plant close to the house in a sheltered area.

Of course, Philodendrons can be grown outdoors only in very mild climates where the temperature remains fairly constant, and well above freezing point.

Planting styles for the Philodendron are numerous. Use it as a trailing vine across a mantle, over a trellis or for very dramatic effect on bamboo or sphagnum moss poles. Informally, it is attractive twined over driftwood.

Civil Defense Has Key Role in Peace

Natural disasters can strike anytime, anywhere.

From pioneer days to the present, neighbors have always helped each other in times of distress. But often, the power of a great hurricane, flood or tornado completely outmatched the valiant but disorganized efforts of untrained volunteers.

* * *

TODAY THE UNITED STATES has a form of disaster insurance—civil defense. Like any other insurance, it doesn't guarantee that disaster won't occur.

But by executive order, the Federal Civil Defense Administration does have the responsibility for coordinating all disaster relief efforts of the Federal Government under Public Law 875. This guarantees that the resources of the entire nation can be marshalled against nature on the rampage as required.

It's a job which requires the skills of many specialists, such as the Army Corps of Engineers, the National Guard and the American Red Cross. Trained civil defense workers in the general disaster area put their rescue, traffic control, first aid and other skills to practical use.

SIX-YEAR-OLD boy is carried to safety by George A. Spooner, New Britain, Conn., civil defense director, during great Northeast flood in the wake of Hurricane Diane. Chaotic flood conditions provide valuable experience for local CD workers in any attack emergency. (Hartford, Conn Times)
